

ES 360: Immigration to Hawaii and the U.S.

Fall 2014

301B George Hall M/W 9:30-10:45

A Note from the Professor

Talofa and Aloha,
Welcome to ES 360. Our course schedule on our Lualima page lists the weekly readings and assignments – here I’ve listed just the major ones. Be sure to refer to our online syllabus early and often – if you ever need to know what to read before class or what’s due, it’s all there.

About me: I am jointly appointed in Sociology and Ethnic Studies and I teach a variety of courses on race, ethnicity, migration, sport, and the Pacific. If you have questions or just want to talk about ideas, etc. you are always welcome to come to office hours; e-mail is the best way to get a hold of me outside of office hours. (On class days you can usually find me in one of my two offices.) Looking forward to a great semester!

– Professor Uperesa

Instructor Contact Information

Professor Lisa Uperesa

E-mail: faanofo@hawaii.edu

Office Hours:

M 1:30-2:30 (304 George Hall)

T 1:00-2:00 (212 Saunders)

Inside this Issue

Page

2 Course Policies

2 Required Course Texts, Assignments

3 Assignments Explained

4 Course Schedule

5 Course Schedule Cont’d.

6 Course Schedule Cont’d.

7 Course Schedule Cont’d. and Important Due Dates

COURSE DESCRIPTION

“Immigrant” “Overstayer” “Illegal” “Alien” “Migrant Worker”. These are all buzzwords that emerge in public discussions of immigration. Yet these terms are used often without a clear sense of their historicity or a critical lens on assumptions about race, gender, culture, and personal worth implicitly attached to them. Drawing on articles, primary historical documents, creative writing, film, and online media, this course critically examines the historical and contemporary contexts that shape immigration to Hawai‘i and the United States. We will begin with a study of the cultural, political, and economic history of immigration to the U.S. and Hawai‘i, placing it in larger frameworks of global movement and migration of people and capital. We will then focus on selected case studies of migration, mostly from the Pacific, and examine changes in cultural practice, the formation of transnational communities, labor regimes, late capitalism, and contemporary popular culture.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Demonstrate understanding of the political, historical, social, economic, and cultural dimensions immigration.
2. Employ a variety of effective writing strategies, and proficiency in selected writing genres.
3. Show a critical understanding of immigration in a global framework, incorporating theoretical and contextual approaches.
4. Make explicit connections between immigration and other important aspects of social life, including the economy, politics, gender relations, and culture in Hawai‘i and the U.S.
5. Demonstrate critical reading, writing, and thinking skills.

This course fulfills the UHM Writing (W) Focus requirement. Writing is fully integrated into the main course material, and serves as a key component of student learning in this course. Writing assignments and activities constitute 55% of the course grade. Students will be responsible for a minimum of 20 pages of writing throughout the course of the semester. Through the use of in-class activities, including writing workshops and peer review, as well as a variety of take-home assignments, students will develop effective writing strategies.

COURSE POLICIES

The course will feature writing activities, small and large group discussion, guest lecturers, and film selections. There will be a lot of reading and writing.

Students are expected to attend class having read the assigned material, and to participate in class discussions. As with all academic classes, you are expected to complete approximately 3 hours of outside study time/homework for every hour of in-class time. This means that you should expect to devote at least 6 hours per week to preparing for this class.

Accommodations and Academic Support

Any student who feels s/he may need an accommodation based on the impact of a disability is invited to contact me privately. I would be happy to work with you and with the KOKUA Program (Office for Students with Disabilities) to ensure reasonable accommodations in my course. KOKUA can be reached at (808) 956-7511 or (808) 956-7612 (voice/text) in room 013 of the Queen Lili'uokalani Center for Student Services.

Academic Honesty

Students are expected to know and follow the University of Hawai'i Systemwide Student Conduct Code, particularly sections on proscribed conduct (http://studentaffairs.manoa.Hawai'i.edu/policies/conduct\_code/system\_scc.php). Plagiarism is a serious violation of the UH-Manoa Student Conduct Code. In it, plagiarism is defined as follows: "Plagiarism includes but is not limited to submitting, in fulfillment of an academic requirement, any work that has been copied in whole or in part from another individual's work without attributing that borrowed portion to the individual; neglecting to identify as a quotation another's idea and particular phrasing that was not assimilated into the student's language and style or paraphrasing a passage so that the reader is misled as to the source; submitting the same written or oral or artistic material in more than one course without obtaining authorization from the instructors involved; or "drylabbing," which includes obtaining and using experimental data and laboratory write-ups from other sections of a course or from previous terms" (University of Hawai'i at Manoa Student Conduct Code (1992: 6). Anyone who plagiarizes another's work will fail the course.

CLASSROOM CONDUCT

Although it is difficult, you must be able to unplug yourself from your phone, texting, facebook, chat, and internet surfing for the duration of our class time. Turn off all electronic devices while we are in class together (I know, 75 minutes is a looooong time but you can do it!). Respect your fellow classmates and your professor by being present.

ASSIGNMENTS and GRADING

This upper division course is considered a collaborative learning experience between students and instructor. Students have diverse backgrounds, experiences, training, and education that they bring to the classroom, which enhances the classroom exchange and learning experience. In preparing this course syllabus, the instructor's responsibility is to provide a range of learning opportunities that will enhance understanding and mastery of the student learning objectives outlined for this course. However, students are encouraged to join in the design and evaluation of all aspects of this course and their learning.

All assignments are due on the date indicated. Late assignments are NOT ACCEPTED. Assignment descriptions are listed on the next page.

Attendance and Participation	60 points
Panels/Discussion Facilitation	40 points
Journals	60 points
Personal Migration Essay	40 points
Migration Critical Essay	60 points
Final Project	80 points
Final Exam	60 points
TOTAL	300 points
*Extra Credit (up to 10 points)

REQUIRED COURSE TEXTS

Books are available at the UH Bookstore; you are also welcome to purchase them elsewhere. All books will be available on reserve at the library.

- Nazario, Sonia
2006 Enrique's Journey. New York: Random House.
- Small, Cathy
1997 Voyages: from Tongan villages to American suburbs. Ithaca, N.Y.: Cornell University Press.
- Yellin, Linda
2009 A Sociology Writer's Guide: Allyn & Bacon. (Available on reserve at Sinclair)

A course reader with assigned articles will be available. See the course Laulima website for the class schedule. Unless otherwise noted, the assigned readings are required. BRING YOUR READINGS TO CLASS.

ASSIGNMENTS

Attendance and Participation (40 pts)

This course will be taught as an upper division recitation (lecture/discussion). This means that roughly half of the course will be lecture and half will consist of discussion of course topics and assigned reading materials. Students who do the reading, approach the assignments responsibly, and participate in class will do well in this course. Students will be graded on participation every week. Remaining points will be drawn from in-class exercises.

Personal Migration Essay (30 pts)

Students will be asked to write their own or their family's migration story/ies in a personal essay (5 pages).

Migration Critical Analysis (60 pts)

Students will be asked to reflect on and critically analyze the intersection between their own/family's migration story and the historical context which shaped it. Over the course of several classes we will draft and revise the essays, using this assignment to develop and hone writing skills. The essay (5 pages) will be graded using clear criteria, provided in a rubric to students along with the essay prompt.

Final Exam (60 pts)

There will be a final exam according to the schedule final exam dates.

Journals (60 pts)

Students will keep a journal of responses to course readings and activities (expected 1-2 pages, double-spaced, per week over six weeks). Typed journal entries will be due as noted on the course schedule. Journals are intended to be a space for students to engage with the readings, make connections to other material inside or outside of class – in short a space to reflect. Further instructions on the journal entries will be given in class.

Final Project (80 pts)

Final projects will explore some facet of immigration to Hawai'i and the US that students choose. The projects will model the research process (topic, preliminary research, literature review, outlining, and analysis) but will culminate in a final presentation. The presentations may include artwork, video, performance, etc., at the student's discretion. Over the second half of the semester, select portions of the final project will be workshopped in class. Near the end of the semester, students will present their work to the class.

For those wishing to do a service learning project and analysis for their final project, that will be an option. The site must be selected by the third week of classes so that registration and orientation can proceed in a timely manner. Guidelines will be distributed in class and posted on the course Lulima page.

Extra Credit: There will be opportunities to earn extra credit over the course of the semester, up to 10 points.