Text:

Supplementary Readings: By assignment.

Class Objectives:

The objective of this class is to help students gain a basic understanding of quantitative and qualitative research methods. This process includes learning how to choose appropriate research topics, designing effective and appropriate research methods, properly conducting and analyzing data and reporting the results accurately and succinctly. While this course includes the theoretical and methodological issues vital to properly conducting survey research, it also provides an opportunity for students to learn from experience. The entire course is geared toward the creation and analysis of (a) an original survey and (b) a handful of semi-structured interviews in an attempt to provide a practical application to the technical elements of social research methods. The assignments build on each other from week to week as the students first choose realistic research topics, then create and conduct a research instrument, and finally analyze the data and report the findings. The lab periods will be used as opportunities for students to work toward their various assignments as the labs focus more on the technical aspects such as literature searches, data entry and analysis, while the lectures focus on the principles of social research.

Assignments:

- Readings
  You are expected to have readings completed in the week they are assigned in order to follow and participate in class and lab discussion. The text is also a supplementary resource for conducting your research.

- Exams
  The final exam will be drawn primarily from the course text and lecture material. The final exam will be made up of the material covered throughout the entire class. You will have 2 hours to complete the final exam.

* This schedule is subject to change to accommodate the progress of lectures and projects. Supplementary reading materials may be distributed throughout the course.
