PUBA’s Professor Pratt Returns to Mongolia to Strengthen Relationship with Academy of Management

Date: June 2010

Dick Pratt returned to Mongolia in June to continue work he has been doing there since 2002. His primary activities this time were with the Academy of Management, which provides higher education and training for the nation’s public officials. He began an assessment of recent changes in their graduate curriculum, provided advice for a new course on democratic governance, worked on a 2011 conference on the opportunities and challenges of democratic practices, and discussed future exchange agreements with PUBA. He also met with the new director of the American Center for Mongolian Research and with the Executive Director of the Soros Open Society Forum. In 2009 two PUBA students did their practicum at the Forum, working on a new public hearing process for the nation’s parliament.
