PUBA Hosts Local Leadership Standouts from Northeast Thailand

Date: February 2008

In spring 2008 the Program will host a few exemplary local leaders from northeast Thailand. While here they will talk together about what they do that makes them exceptional leaders, attend PUBA and other classes on campus, and meet with local public officials. Afterward we will pull together a booklet of lessons that can be shared with other local leaders in the region.

The project is supported by the Center for Southeast Asian Studies at UHM, with additional funding from PUBA. It is an outcome of the long-term relationship between PUBA and Khon Kaen University. If the project is successful it may be expanded to other parts of the Mekong Region.
